Special PINK Ladies

Around 300 of Sidcup's lovely ladies created a buzz in the Big Top last night as they were pampered with hair treatments, massages and manicures as well as the opportunity to buy from a range of different suppliers of ladies wear and accessories. Live music with professional singing and keyboard playing added to the great atmosphere of the venue and Jaqui White gave a short summary of how her family life was completely restored when her errant drug abusing husband decided to try life with God's help. All to show you ladies that each of you is special and loved!!

On the bus for Reading

We have had the Bexley Library bus book a space at Lark in the Park many times over the past few years. On site again yesterday, the bus had over 200 visitors. Rob Hales, of the Bexley Library Service said "It's really encouraging to see so many young people interested in books and reading, especially outside of school."

3 Wise Ladies

The Chapel is a place you can go to sit and contemplate, ask for prayer or ask for help to pray. Volunteers Sarah Williams, Annie Webb and Debbie Shearing are there for you each afternoon.

The Boys are back in town! Tonight 8pm

A letter to you all

Well, we are on day 12 of our 16 day programme, with some great events and activities behind us and still plenty more to come in the remaining five days.

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of all of the 350 or so volunteers, to thank you for all of the kind and encouraging comments you have made about Lark in the Park. Not just this year, but in previous years too.

You have told us how secure you feel, how friendly everyone is and how you are happy to trust your children with our kids clubs teams; also how your children's behaviour is often improved after an afternoon in one of the club venues. You have remarked too on how peaceful and relaxed you feel when you are at Lark in the Park, even at times when there is pressure in your life that you find difficult to cope with.

We want you to know that we are not professional event organisers (although after 14 years we have certainly learned a thing or two!). What we are is a group of people who have had their lives changed by a personal encounter with Jesus, the Son of God. A group prepared to give up its time and money to provide Lark in the Park for you, because we think it's worth it, you're worth it; it's the kind of thing we believe Jesus would do.

When we arrive at site each morning, we carry out the practical procedures to make the event work. And then we pray. We ask God to be with us at the event, to bring peace and harmony to the site and to provide relief for those who are burdened with troubles.

There are just a few days left of Lark in the Park 2010. I invite you to take the opportunity to speak to someone about how Jesus can make a difference in your life. Speak to a Park Pastor, visit the Chapel or come to The Living Room at 8pm this evening. Whether you choose to or not, thank you for your kind comments and enjoy the rest of Lark in the Park 2010.

Loving the Friendliness

Tina Whipps, Linda Taite, Nanny Whipps and Jo Whittam all enjoy their time at Lark in the Park. "Over 7 years coming here, my Daniel has moved through from Sparkles Toddlers to the Buzz club. We love it here, especially the friendliness of everyone involved."

In a team meeting this morning, someone told of how a mum had asked her children if they wanted to go to Legoland this week. "No" was the emphatic reply, "We want to go to Lark in the Park"!

Park Life Hosts

Part Two – Matt

Last week we gave you a few notes about Catrin Regan, professional actor and Park Life host alongside Matt Green. Now it's Matt's turn. Matt moved with his New Zealander wife Anna from the Isle of Wight, where he was brought up, to work for New Generation Church (his name made it impossible for him to fulfil his schoolboy dream of working on the paint counter at Homebase). Matt not only hosts Park Life, but is responsible for other events at Lark in the Park including the Candlelit Couples Night. He is a first class squash player, but for someone so nimble and adept at getting around the court, he finds it impossible to dance. Matt is a man with a huge heart and a gift for looking after people. He also has the look and stature of Tom Cruise, see for yourself in this picture of him chatting to Lark in the Park band members Jon and Chris. Oh.
